

MEMBERSHIP POLICY

ISRM

First and foremost we are a member organisation, and as a new institute we are committed to growing our membership in order to allow us to become the “global centre where practitioners, academics and policy makers can come together to share information” that we all want.

We will actively engage with the current and potential membership community through LinkedIn and the ISRM website, regularly sharing news and information and encouraging participation and information exchange.

Our approach to membership is simple. We will grant the privileges of membership through a straightforward fee structure, allowing applicants to select the membership level most appropriate to them. All we ask in return is that applicants provide accurate information about themselves and an honest assessment of their skills and experience. We also ask that they engage with members and others in a professional and respectful manner consistent with the institute’s aims and objectives.

Members will enjoy a range of benefits designed to enhance their personal and professional development. These include discounts on various training courses, events and journal subscriptions, access to mentoring services, webinars, learning resources, free downloads and a member-only discussion forum.
